NUTRITION & SUSTAINABILITY 2019 FOOD AS MEDICINE SYMPOSIUM

---

Sponsorship and Exhibitor Opportunities

History of the Food as Medicine Institute (FAMI)

The Food as Medicine Institute began in 2010 with the creation of a community based nutrition education and cooking program launched in low-income areas in Portland. Bob's Red Mill and Bob & Charlee Moore have generously sponsored the program since its inception. The Food as Medicine Institutes offers its 12-week series, the Food as Medicine Everyday (FAME) series to diverse communities around Portland, including a women's correctional facility, a community center for adults with mental illness, a rural farming community, and at our teaching kitchen in downtown Portland. Over 1,500 individuals have completed the FAME series.

The Institute will host its 6th annual Food as Medicine Symposium that will provide continuing education for physicians, lectures for community members, and bring together local businesses and organizations dedicated to improving access to natural and healthy foods for everyone. The symposium also serves as a fundraiser to support the institute's nutrition outreach for communities in need.

Thank you for your consideration!

2019 Food as Medicine Symposium

Theme

Nutrition and Sustainability

Date/Location

February 16-17th at the National University of Natural Medicine (049 SW Porter, Portland, OR)

Details

Industry leaders, physicians and healthcare professionals will deepen their knowledge of clinical nutrition. The professional track will take place on Saturday and Sunday, practitioners will receive 12 hours of CE credit. The public track will take place on Saturday only. Each track will dive deep into the ever present, ever important conversation on sustainability and how the food we choose can affect our health, environment, and community.

Professional presentations will focus on clinical dietary recommendations that are sustainable as well as the impact certain agricultural decisions have on our health.

Public presentations will focus on the impact local food systems have on our health, hearing from noted farmers, nutrition experts, and environmentalist.

Marketplace

Every year we look for local, sustainable, and natural food companies, and organizations (including non-profits), to share their products. This year we are looking for those companies that dedicate their work to nutrition and sustainability; including using food as medicine, sustainable practices, and nutrition to aid in our community's health by providing healthier options, more options, and considering healthier systems.

Sponsorship and Exhibitor Opportunities

As a sponsor or exhibitor at the Food as Medicine Symposium, your company or organization will be exposed to naturopathic physicians, nutritionists, medical doctors and other health care professionals. In addition, you will interact with the general public and local community members interested in food and nutrition. With two different tracks of information during the day, one for the public and one for professionals, diversity of exposure is ensured for spreading the word of a company, product, or organization. Lecture breaks for both tracks are 30 minutes and are staggered, ensuring traffic throughout the day in the Marketplace. There has routinely been over 250 attendees and expectations are higher this year. Sponsors and exhibitors are permitted to sell their product at the marketplace. Sponsors get even more added benefits and exposure (see below for more details).
